2. Costumes of my country

In Bolivia, there is a great wealth of traditions, clothing, dances and customs, which have been preserved from the colony to the present day.

The traditions of the people prior to the colony were mixed with those of the Spaniards in colonial times, achieving the miscegenation of clothing and traditions, which are still preserved by the population and revived in the folkloric festivities of the country, among which: The Carnival of Oruro, the "Entrada del Gran Poder" in the city of La Paz, the "Entrada de la Vírgen de Urkupiña" of the city of Cochabamba, the festivity of Los Chutillos in Potosí.

In these festivities typical dances are shown as the Diablada, Morenada, Incas, Pujllay, Caporales, Negritos, Llamerada, Ahuatiris, Tarqueada, Tinkus, Suri and many others, in them abound a waste of colors and joy, in a strange mixture of paganism and Catholicism.

SAVE THE WATER

3. Advises for caring water at carnivals

Why it is important to take care of water?

Life on Earth exists thanks to the presence of water on the planet.

The “blue gold” as has already begun to be called to this resource, receives this name for the importance it has for our existence and at the same time for its scarcity. Although three-quarters of the planet is water, only a tiny percentage can be used by humans.

Therefore, we must take care of the water we have because our present and future depends on it.

Let’s practice these advices to save the water in our school and home:

Turn off tap while brushing teeth

Take shorter baths

Turn off tap while applying soap

Turn off after each use

Don`t flush tissue paper or waste into the toilet
